

HELP WANTED

A two-day job fair, held at the Top of the Hop and Alumni Hall and organized by the College's center for professional development, attracted more than 200 employers and roughly 1,000 students in late September.

REPORTED BY JESSICA FEDIN '17
DRAWN BY PETER ARKLE

Have your IDs ready to sign in.

MARINES IBM Watson

Is the social responsibility aspect big?

It's one of those things where I don't feel pressured if I want to leave. The initial commitment is four years though.

It's more flexible and you get to make the decisions.

Nice to meet you.

Eventually, it won't even be necessary, it will just be an algorithm.

Do you have any other questions?

When it comes to us, we have to figure out what they want. It's very fast-paced.

Awesome boutique strategy consulting firm.

What's up, man? Haven't seen you. How's Beta? How's senior year going?

Do you like doing this job?

It's a really cool environment.

You don't have to have a scientific background.

You're so young, why are you here?

I'm an economics and government double major.

My co-worker is in love with me.

You can apply now, but better to apply in January so you don't get lost in the shuffle.

Why are there '19s here?

It's like... I'm not hiring you! You were so mean to me!

Haha ha...

I know you guys have been working for, like, five hours.

I know, it's like insane, there's so much money.

Do you have any marketing experience?

It's a lot more about demonstrating you have the skills.

What time is this over?

It's a really cool environment.

All you really need to do is know how to talk to people like a normal person.

We offer a relaxed work environment.

I'm Bulgarian.

We're a strategy consulting firm.

Oh, so am I.

I study CS.

How do I start the process of applying?

Do you know anything about the junior internships?

I'll definitely contact you if I have any questions.

There's so much hostility against '17s. I get so annoyed when I see one in a suit.

There's no formal listing, but we do accommodate Dartmouth kids' plans.

Pretty much done with everything by now.

